More About the New Book By Lu Murphy

THIS IS VERY FINE for Timotheus—getting hold of something that can be stretched out into a pair of columns, which means that I am really getting two for the price of one.

You remember, yesterday I started out discussing the Eldorado girl, Lu Murphy, who wrote a book which apparently will turn out to be quite successful. I ran out of space and had to quit; so the rest of the article is appearing today, which is Friday.

You also remember, I went to school with her brothers, Stanley and Jay, and it is to them that the book is thus dedicated: "To Stan and Jay, my two big brothers who worked my way through college. So I should like to say thank you, I love you both very much. And could you please advance me a little on next month's allowance?"

To give you examples of the topics written about, here are some of them: "I Dreamed I Was Elvis Presley in My Maiden Form Bra;" "Diamonds are a Shortstop's Best Friend;" "Dentists Drive You to Extraction;" "Mother, Take the Wheel Away, I Cannot Spin Tonight;" and "Cooking is Good for the Soul."

Missy Lu has her book copyrighted and right below that Capital C in a circle it says right there that no part of the book in excess

District Engineer to Attend Meeting Here Next Thursday

William D. MacLeod of Carbondale, district engineer in the division of highways, will come to Harrisburg next Thursday for a 1 p. m. meeting at the Harrisburg city hall to explain and answer questions on the issue that has been burning in the local community—the location of Route 13 when modernization of the highway in this area commences.

But remarks made yesterday by Mr. MacLeod at Carbondale indicated that heat worked up in this city the past several weeks has not been necessary.

No Deadline

Mr. MacLeod, who said he would be happy to come to this city and explain the situation, also said:

There is no deadline on the proposition, that at some future date men from the division of highways will make an origin and destination survey of the traffic on Route 13 here to determine the best route. If there is evidence that most of the traffic is going on through the city, a by-pass highway probably will be built skirting the town. If the survey shows that a majority of the traffic is coming to Harrisburg, a Route 13 into the city would be the feasible thing.

He said if the latter were the case, the division of highways would go before the local council and submit its proposition to build the highway through Harrisburg. He said that streets through the city other than Poplar street are not ruled out, and added he believed the origin and destination survey made by the state might help the council to decide on whether or not it wanted the route to come through town.

Fire Sweeps Two Cars of Elevated Train; One Dead, Scores Injured

Second Major 'El' Accident in Chicago in 5 Weeks

CHICAGO (AP) — Fire swept through two wooden cars of an elevated train crowded with suburbanites bound for work early today, killing one person and injuring scores.

It was the second major accident on Chicago's elevated railway system in five weeks.

Authorities believed an explosion touched off the fire and electrocuted the motorman before the flames spread back through the lead car of the Evanston special bound for downtown Chicago.

Persons waiting on the Howard Street platform at the northern boundary of Chicago said the car was burning when the train passed that station. It halted at the next stop south.

Panic swept through the cars.

He was born Oct. 9, 1882, in Beaver Dam, Ky., the son of Hillas and Rose Bosket. On June 7, 1909, he was married to the former Alice Christy who survives. Continue to Pour Water on Burning Pile of Corn Cobs Water continued to be poured on a burning corn cob pile at the Harrisburg Milling Co. this morning, after firemen received a call about 10 o'clock last night to go to the blazing heap.

Firemen fought the persistent flames and laid a line, which was used during the night and today by mill employees.

The company told Fire Chief L. G. Martin the fire apparently was started by children playing on the pile. At 5:15 p. m. yesterday a run was made to the Richmond service station, where a fire ignited at the gasoline tank entry on Texal Parish's automobile. Paint on the car fender was burned and there was damage to the hose on one of Richmond's gasoline pumps. There was no explanation as to how the fire started.

Dooley Rites Saturday 3 p. m.

Funeral services for Earl Edward Dooley, resident of 806 West Raymond who died at the Harrisburg hospital yesterday at 6:30 a. m., will be Saturday at 3 p. m. at the family home. Rev. Delmar Feazel will officiate, assisted by Rev. Roy Reynolds. Burial will be in Sunset Hill. The body was taken from the Gaskins funeral home to the residence to lie in state.

Jack Morris, 72, Dies Near Shawneetown

Jack Morris, 72, died at 4:30 p. m. yesterday at his farm home north of Shawneetown.

He leaves his wife, Olive, one brother and four sisters.

The body is at the Cox funeral home in Ridgway and will remain there until the funeral which will be at the Missionary Baptist church in Junction at a time to be announced later. Rev. Gene Allen, pastor, will officiate and burial will be in the McGehee cemetery.

Terrified passengers smashed windows and jumped out on the catwalk. Some, injured, lay there while others, in a state of shock, wandered to the street.

"There were people jumping everywhere, onto the tracks," Saul Friedman, 40, Wilmette, said. "The first car was all in flames."

At the Cook County Morgue, the dead man was identified as motorman Daniel Cullen, 47.

St. Francis Hospital in suburban Evanston said it treated at least 15 persons. Evanston Hospital 11, and Edgewater Hospital in Chicago 7. Lt. Albert Bruns of the Rogers Park police said he believed the injured would total about 40, and said many passengers apparently suffered from shock. Three of those at Edgewater Hospital were described as in critical condition.

Traffic on the elevated line was halted as power was turned off in the accident area. Thousands of persons who ordinarily use the line to reach their jobs in the Loop or elsewhere in Chicago were delayed in reaching their destinations.

Banks in County Receiving Points For Red Cross Hungarian Relief

Banks at Stonefort, Carrier Mills, Harrisburg, and Eldorado have been made receiving points for Saline county contributions to the Red Cross Hungarian Relief fund, it was announced today. Containers will be placed in each bank in the county to hold the contributions.

The American Red Cross issued a special appeal for $5,000,000 to help with the enormous needs of the people in Hungary and Hungarian refugees in Austria and elsewhere, and Saline county's proportionate share of the campaign is $703. Before setting up a specific fund-raising campaign, the county Executive committee is giving every resident an opportunity to contribute voluntarily, in the belief that there are enough people in the county who want to extend help to the Hungarian people that the $703 can be raised without an organized fund drive.

The three main uses of the big fund will be (1) a huge International Red Cross feeding operation in Hungary which will provide daily meals for up to 200,000 persons by January; (2) Food, clothing, shelter, and medical care during the winter for over 85,000 Hungarian refugees in Austria, and (3) Continuing assistance for the Hungarian refugees who will be arriving in the United States.

The huge program involves more than 40 refugee camps in Austria, care for an additional 5,000 refugees in Germany, aid and welfare services to refugees flown to the United States, and communications between American citizens and their relatives in Hungary.

This is an annual trip made by the psychology classes. According to Mr. Bauman it has proved to be an interesting and valuable experience.

Ex-GI Returns to Family Farm After Seven Years; Mother Sobs

By SAM HANCOCK

United Press Staff Correspondent

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Turncoat GI Arlie Pate returned for a tearful homecoming today to a family he hadn't seen in seven years and to a farm home he had never seen.

Pate arrived at his family's modest farm home in a driving rain storm at 2 a. m., CST, and immediately fell into an embrace with his sobbing mother.

Newsman, who had waited four hours in the rain and mud, were barred from the house by Pate's mother, Mrs. Daniel Pate, who said she wanted a "quiet" reunion with her boy.

"I want this to be Arlie's homecoming, the same as when he left," she said.

It had been seven years since Pate had left his family to become a soldier and fight in the Korean War. He was captured and in 1953 he and 19 other American prisoners of war turned their backs on America and chose to remain with the Communist Chinese captors.

While he was gone, his family had acted on his advice and bought the 78-acre farm that will be his new home. One of his brothers, Ronald, 17, drowned, and another brother, Harold, 11, had no recollection of him.

Pate and a fellow turncoat decided only last month that they wanted to come home. They arrived in Seattle, Wash., Thursday, but were delayed in their journey the rest of the way by fog.

Their plane was forced to land at Milwaukee and they arrived in Chicago by bus. Pate continued home by car, and his companion, Aaron Wilson, 23, boarded a plane in Chicago later for his home in Urania, La.

Pate's family, including his father Daniel, 50, his mother, Zady, 47, and brothers and sisters Donald, 18, Harold and Jewell Dean, 15, had been up since before dawn Thursday preparing for his homecoming.

Earlier, the family slaughtered two hogs to prepare his favorite dishes of headcheese, ham and bacon. Upon reaching Chicago, Pate told newsmen "I never was a Communist." He said he went behind the Bamboo Curtain "out of curiosity about the Chinese way of life."

"It's not for me," he added, "It's not my way of life."

Air Force Guided Missile, Fired From Florida Base, is Missing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A guided intercontinental missile that escaped control after being fired from Florida was reported missing today, possibly in the Brazilian jungles.

Air Force officials said the 600-mile an hour missile — named the Snark and designed as a nuclear weapon — presumably did not carry a warhead of any kind.

The missing Snark was test-fired Wednesday from the Joint Defense Department-Air Force test center at Patrick Air Force Base at Cocoa, Fla.

Destination Unknown

The Defense Department issued a brief statement shortly before midnight Thursday night announcing that the missile escaped from control at its "scheduled turnaround point and proceeded to a destination yet unknown."

"We don't know where it is," a Pentagon spokesman said.

He said he could not confirm or deny published reports that the Snark was seen flashing over the Brazilian jungles 2,000 miles from its base.

However, he said the missile presumably has crashed either in the ocean or some remote land area and Brazil was a good possibility.

Brazilian diplomats here said they had heard nothing about the missing Snark.

The Pentagon spokesman said he had no information regarding plans to search for the missile except to say "We always try to get them back."

Not The First Lost

He said the Air Force has lost a number of Snarks in tests from Florida.

The 72-foot long Snark—a sleek, red pilotless bomber designed to carry an atomic warhead over intercontinental distances—has been flown over distances of 2,000 miles.

It is guided by automatic celestial navigation devices so it can take bearings on the stars and travel to its target unassisted by man.

Carmi Man One of Nine Stranded by Plane at South Pole

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—The population at the South Pole was unexpectedly boosted to 34 Americans today when 9 crew members of a U. S. Navy plane were stranded there by engine trouble.

A Lockheed P2V Neptune bomber piloted by Lt. Cmdr. John H. Torbert of North Kingston, R. I., failed to get off the ground to return to its base here after completing ski landing and takeoff tests at the pole.

The plane, which arrived from the United States only three days ago, may become the first aircraft to remain at the South Pole more than 24 hours. The only other plane to land there was a Navy C47 cargo ship which kept its engines running to keep from freezing up.

Torbert, Capt. Douglas L. Corbinder of Washington, D. C., commander of the Navy aviation squadron, and the seven other Neptune crew members joined the 25 U. S. personnel already stationed at the pole while they awaited the arrival of new engine parts from McMurdo Sound.

The other crew members included two Midwest men — Clair F. Jones Jr. of Carmi, Ill., and Daniel Rello, Detroit, both Navy enlisted men.

Opportunity Knocked

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Ike Turned Cold Shoulder To Prime Minister Eden Visit; Joe McCarthy's Star Dims In Wisconsin; General Gruenther Turned Down $100,000 To Stay Near Eisenhower.

WASHINGTON. — Prime Minister Eden, vacationing in the British West Indies, has been angling for an invitation to visit President Eisenhower.

However, though the two men are within only a few hours flying time, Ike, until this writing, has been aloof.

Eden needs a visit with the President to rebuild his badly battered political prestige. Without it he may have to resign shortly. In fact, even with it the chances of his resignation are fairly certain.

Hitherto, the President has followed along with the tough Dulles recommendation that we should have no meeting with the French and British until they pull their troops out of Suez. Now that they've made a firm commitment, however, the President may relent.

WANING MCCARTHY

Times have changed in the home state of Sen. Joe McCarthy. They have also changed in the rest of the U. S. A. Here are some scenes which indicate the change:

Scene 1—Wheeling, W. Va., February 1950. McCarthy proclaimed there were "205 card-carrying Communists" in the State Department "known to Secretary Dean Acheson." Two days later he changed the figure to 57 Communists, and nine days after that to 81.

Despite the obvious unreliability of McCarthy's figures, American newspapers played it up. A campaign year was approaching. The issue of McCarthyism flared before the American public. Witch-hunting became the chief congressional sport of the day.

In the end not one of those in the State Department to whom McCarthy pointed was proved a Communist.

Scene 2—Wisconsin in 1956. The junior senator from that state announced he would run for the Senate again. Locally this was news. There had been considerable talk that McCarthy for health reasons would not run again. But news of his announcement was buried in the inside pages.

Scene 3—West Allis, a suburb of Milwaukee. McCarthy was to speak. A few years ago any meeting featuring McCarthy would have been packed. At West Allis 75 people turned up.

Scene 4—The GOP campaign in Wisconsin this year. Shortly after McCarthy was re-elected in 1952 he was the Wisconsin Lincoln Day speaker. With him was Vernon Thomson, who made a mauling speech praising McCarthy. Last month the same Vernon Thomson, running for governor of Wisconsin, was very careful all during his campaign to let no news photographer take a picture of him alongside the once heralded Joe McCarthy.

Epilogue—Not one of the State Department officials to whom McCarthy pointed was ever proved a Communist.

The moral is not "how the mighty have fallen" but rather how the press of America can make or break a man. McCarthy was a great figure as long as he was pointing to Communists inside the Truman administration.

He was not a great figure when he pointed to Communists inside the Eisenhower administration. There were very few Communists in either.

IKE'S BRIDGE PARTNER

It was no accident that Gen. Al Gruenther became head of the American Red Cross with headquarters just across the Ellipse from the White House. Inside fact is that he turned down a salary of upward of $100,000 with Olin-Mathieson Industries to take a $30,000 job with the Red Cross.

Behind this is many years of close association between Gruenther and Dwight D. Eisenhower dating back to their younger days in the Army, extending through many evenings at bridge and including the war years in Europe plus the postwar years at SHAPE in Paris.

Gruenther is definitely slated for a top post in the Eisenhower administration—later. His health has not been too good recently. But he will be on tap for conferences at the White House and later possibly secretary of defense or more remotely, secretary of state. Gruenther made a big impression on western allies when he was in charge of NATO. However, Eisenhower reported dubious about having two military men—himself and Gruenther—in charge of foreign affairs.

MAILBAG

MAIL BAG, NEW YORK—The report that President Eisenhower threatened to use the Sixth Fleet against the British and French unless they called off their Egyptian invasion is preposterous. It's true the British were worried about the Sixth Fleet and wondered what its orders were. But the orders were simply to help evacuate American personnel. At one point, a couple of Sixth Fleet ships got mixed up in a British invasion convoy. There was a good-natured exchange of signals, and the incident passed without trouble. This may have led to the erroneous report.

CAUTIOUS STATE DEPARTMENT

The State Department is so nervous about the world crisis that it stopped a demonstration of Army mobility for fear it might be misinterpreted by trigger-happy Russia.

The Army wanted to fly a company of paratroopers to Belgium to commemorate the Battle of the Bulge. The plan was to send 400 men from the famous 101st Paratroopers, the division that withstood the German breakthrough and stubbornly refused to surrender.

The company was to parachute into Belgium on field maneuvers, then march to Bastogne to participate in the local celebration between December 16 and 22. This would demonstrate dramatically how fast American troops could be rushed halfway around the world in an emergency.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, the Army chief, liked the idea. But the State Department flatly turned it down. They feared Russia might get the wrong idea and think we were trying to start trouble in Europe.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

He beheld the city and wept over it. Luke 19:41.

No city in all history has had so many men weep over it. The walling wall has localized this grief. Millions are still weeping over this afflicted city. Christ tried to correct some faults by overthrowing the tables of the short change money changers. He gave his life to correct its faults. We should be civic minded too.

It's a Whiz at Everything a car should do

It turns out that the 1957 Buick is far more than just a brand-new automobile.

It turns out that this new '57 Buick is winning the raves with a new kind of going and a new kind of stopping—a new kind of handling and a new kind of road sureness—a new kind of safety and a new kind of comfort.

We'll be specific.

When you press the pedal of a new '57 Buick, the response is literally instant . . .

Because the high-torque power of a new 364-cubic-inch V8 engine is delivered in the split of a second through a new full-range Variable Pitch Dynaflo* that's immediate in its oil-smooth action.

When you brake to a stop, you and the car stay on a level plane . . .

Because an ingenious new ball-joint suspension in every '57 Buick virtually ends the down-in-front dip that cars have on sudden stops.

When you take a turn or swing into an "S" curve, you still hug the road like a streamliner on rails—

Because under you is a massive wide-frame new chassis that "nests" the whole car inches closer to the road with the lowest center of gravity in Buick history—yet with no change in road clearance.

And when you sit in the deep comfort of those soft wide seats, you can drive with the pleasant ease of a clear conscience, without watching the speedometer . . .

Because only in Buick today can you have an ingenious new Safety-Minder* that acts as a warning sentinel for the miles-per-hour you preset for yourself.

There are many other new things that make this gorgeous Buick a car of limitless wonders—from the bigger and more rakish windshield that makes seeing more relieving, to the extra roominess that's so surprising in this beauty with the sports-car lowness.

But there's nothing like a firsthand sampling to know how modern the newest thing on wheels really is. Come in today for your meeting with the newest Buick yet.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special. Safety-Minder standard on Roadmaster, optional other Series.

Freights Collide, Engineer Killed

NEW DOUGLAS, Ill. (AP) — Authorities today investigated the cause of a head-on collision of two freight trains, one of them hauling explosives, which killed one man and seriously injured another.

The engineer of one of the trains, Ed Bugle, 42, of Charleston, Ill., was killed instantly in the crash. C. E. Moore, 55, also of Charleston, engineer of the second train, was reported in serious condition in a hospital at nearby Staunton.

One of the Nickle Plate trains was carrying explosives which authorities feared might go off when the wreckage caught fire.

Nearly houses were evacuated as firemen from two communities fought the flames.

The two engines were telescoped by the impact of the crash.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of Frank P. Thompson, who died one year ago today, Nov. 7, 1955:
Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.
Sadly missed by wife and children. *136-1

Advice to Parents On How to Feed Children

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Dr. E. T. McEnery, professor of pediatrics at Loyola University's Stritch medical school, told the 15th National Nutrition Institute that the "child who just won't eat" is that way because the parents don't know how to feed him.

"Parents must get a clearer understanding of children's growth patterns," he urged.

- The doctor suggested these six rules:
1. Permit no food between meals except vegetables and fruits.
 2. Permit no liquids between meals except water.
 3. Your child may have a glass of milk at the end of his meal.
 4. Fruits may be substituted for vegetables in the diet.
 5. Do not expect your child to eat three large meals a day.
 6. Remember that eating is a privilege, not a duty.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to exert or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H stimulate it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

Only a bulk laxative can 1) moisten this dry, shrunken waste and 2) supply vital bulk to recreate a normal urge to purge. And, of all bulk laxatives, COLONOID, the new laxative discovery relieves even chronic constipation overnight, yet is so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONOID neither gags, bloats nor grips; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONOID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONOID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98¢ for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2¢ per tablet.

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS: Half Moon Lick, Famous Landmark, to Be Flooded

The Gallatin Salines came into the possession of Illinois when the new state was formed. They immediately became an important source of revenue for the fledgling state. This is indicated by the fact that in 1821-22 the entire tax paid by residents of Illinois was only $7,121.00 while the state's income from the salt works was $10,563.00. It would appear that the state could hardly have survived without this income.

Half Moon Lick near Equality in Gallatin county was for many years a main source of supply for salt in the Mississippi valley. Until Illinois became a state, the lick and a considerable tract of the lands lying about it remained in the possession and under the management of the United States government. From time to time they would lease it to an individual or group to operate for a term of years, generally for a portion of the salt made.

Tract of Land Set Aside

Because of its importance as a source of supply and because the government wished to encourage the development of the industry that would assure an ample salt supply for the midwest, a rectangular tract of land 10 by 16 miles was set aside with a strip about three miles wide running to the mouth of the Saline River. In order to assure a supply of fuel wood for the salt furnaces, this tract was withdrawn from settlement and designated as the Saline Reservation.

At first all operations were contered in the immediate vicinity of the lick. The fuel demands soon removed the nearby forest and required the hauling of wood from a distance. This, in turn, reduced profits. The problem this presented was partially solved by establishing new furnaces some distance away and conveying the brine to them through pipelines, then a somewhat novel idea.

These pipelines were made of logs from 10 to 16 inches in diameter and sometimes more than 16 feet long. The logs were bored lengthwise with holes four or more inches in diameter. This work was first done by hand but later a horsepowered device was arranged to do the work. After boring, the logs were reamed out at one end and tapered at the other. After placing an iron band at the reamed end to prevent splitting, the logs were jammed tightly together to form a pipeline.

Pits Mark Sites

A map prepared about 1816 shows seven of these lines going out from Half Moon, some of them extending for more than two miles. One such line went out from the lower spring located in Salt Spring Hollow about three miles below Equality. It was about this spring that John Crenshaw, builder and owner of the "Slave House," operated. This is the salt spring most visited and is often referred to as "Nigger Spring." It was near this spring that preliminary excavations made a few years ago by Irvin Peithman of SIU indicated that more extensive research might reveal highly significant findings. That the salt making industry near Equality was important in an early day is indicated by the fact that it, more than any other one factor, served to shape the policy of the new state concerning slavery. It also did much to bring about the movement to open Illinois to slavery at a later date.

Pits mark the sites of old wells in the Half Moon Lick area. Some of these pits have large trees growing within them or on their edges to indicate that they were abandoned more than 100 years ago. More well pits, filled and stacked with brush, are seen in a newly cleared field. They are the places where additional wells were sunk in an effort to obtain a better grade of brine.

Landmark to Disappear

Many of the workmen at the lick, both slave and white, lived in the village of Equality. Others lived in houses near the lick. A walk across the newly cleared field already mentioned reveals numerous spots where broken pieces of pottery, china, bricks and discolored stones show that a dwelling once stood. In another field on the other side of the woodland a number of wells and cisterns could be seen a few years ago. Two of them are still in evidence. When the salt works was in full operation, several hundred men worked here and there was a considerable village near the lick.

Now, after a few good rains, Half Moon Lick, one of the most noted landmarks connected with the story of early Southern Illinois, will disappear. The "lick" will be submerged.

A recently constructed dam across the outlet through which the famous salt lick drained will create a lake covering the site and some 30 or 40 additional acres of land. Half Moon Lick will be in the deeper part near the dam.

There can be nothing particularly wrong with the placing of this dam. The deer and buffalo, evidently millions of them, that once came along the now dim trails to lick the salty earth have been gone for a long, long time. Gone, also, are the Indians who came here to hunt or to make salt for themselves. Even the white men who came here to establish the first saltworks, for many years the most important industry in the region, have been gone for more than 80 years.

None of the buildings that served the early industry are left. The derricks, towers, tanks, furnaces, offices, shops and dwellings have all disappeared. To the casual viewer little remains to indicate the extent of the industry that once flourished here.

Some very old persons can still point out the site where Castle and Temple, last operators of the works, had their office. These same persons will help you find bits of low crumbling walls that once were the foundations upon which the kettles and pans were arranged to boil the salty water. About these sites one also finds bits of broken kettles and pans and iron fittings that now are puzzling.

To one who would browse about over the scenes of early Illinois history, a trip to the spot where this early industry flourished would prove rewarding. A book could be written about the Gallatin Salines.

Wallace-Anthony Bout Tonight

NEW YORK — British Empire light heavyweight champion Gordon Wallace of Toronto, Ont., makes his Madison Square Garden debut tonight against fast-punching but fragile-jawed Tony Anthony of New York. Anthony is a 11-5 favorite for the 10-round bout, which will be televised and broadcast nationally starting at 9 p. m. CST.

Wallace's overall record includes 31 victories (15 kayoes), 11 defeats and one draw. A lightning-fast boxer-puncher, Anthony has scored 21 knockouts while winning 28 of 32 pro fights. However, each of his four losses came via kayoes, indicating Tony has one serious flaw in his make-up—a glass jaw.

Anthony currently ranks as the No. 5 contender for Archie Moore's light heavyweight crown; Wallace is No. 7. Moore must sign for a defense of his 175-pound title before March 21, so tonight's winner could move into a championship bout.

Pat McCormick Wins Second Olympics Medal

Americans End
Competition, Trail
Russia, 593 to 712

MELBOURNE — Plucky Pat McCormick of Lakewood, Calif., completed an unprecedented "double slam" of Olympic diving titles tonight by coming from behind to win the platform event in a 1-2-3 sweep by Americans.

The high dive ended American competition in the games and brought the U. S. point total to 593. Russia, certain of at least 5 more in soccer Saturday, had 712 points.

Victor in the spring board championship earlier, the 26-year old housewife then became the first diver in history to win two gold medals in two Olympiads. She mopped up both events at Helsinki four years ago.

Mrs. McCormick, closing out her competitive career, gave the United States its 32nd gold medal of the games and its only consolation on the final day of competition for American athletes.

Mrs. Juno Stover Irwin of Glendale, Calif., finished second and Paula Jean Myers of Glendora, Calif., was third. The clean sweep added 19 more points to the U. S. total.

Earlier tonight, however, 17-year old Murray Rose and chubby Lorraine Crapp of Australia ruined other American chances of closing the gap on Russia's overwhelming lead in the team race.

Rose ground out a victory in the men's 1,500-meter freestyle, whipping Tyoshi Yamanka of Japan by three yards and world record-holder George Breen of Buffalo, by 13 in 17 minutes, 58.9 seconds.

Miss Crapp reversed an earlier defeat at 100 meters by her speedy teammate, Dawn Fraser, and won the women's 400-meter freestyle with ease in the new Olympic time of 4:54.6. Sylvia Ruuska, 14-year old star from Berkeley, Calif., was third.

Erocle Baldini, 23-year old Italian butcher, earlier won the gruelling 116-mile cycling road race and Russia picked up another gold medal in gymnastics.

Russia boosted its point total by adding 14 1/2 more in women's gymnastics, four for a third place finish in water polo, and one for sixth place in the team road race standings. The Soviet water polo team downed Germany 6-4 for the bronze medal.

A former University of Illinois star, Billy Ridley, scored 20 points to top the army team's scorers.

Majors Establish $500,000 Fund To Aid Minors

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — The major and minor leagues, who had so many spats the last decade that they nearly wound up in court, kissed and made up today.

Warriors Edge Celtics, 113-111

By United Press
The Philadelphia Warriors, defending champions of the National Basketball Association, displayed renewed title hopes today after halting the Boston Celtics' 10-game winning streak.

A long set shot by rookie Larry Costello with 32 seconds remaining enabled the Warriors to edge the Celtics, 113-111, Thursday night at Philadelphia after Minneapolis turned back St. Louis, 103-96, in the opener of a double-header.

Boston's Bob Cousy scored 32 points, but the Celtics were unable to contain a trio of Philadelphia scorers. Paul Arizin led the winners with 26 points, while Joe Graboski had 25 and Neil Johnston added 24.

A 30-point effort by Dick Garmaker carried Minneapolis to its victory over St. Louis. Bob Pettit had 17 points for the losers. In another twin-bill at Fort Wayne, the Pistons turned back Syracuse, 104-92, and the New York Knickerbockers rallied to defeat the Rochester Royals, 95-92.

Day of the Outlaw

Dan stared at the gun and he felt all hope leave him in a rush. Vivian continued to rock and she spoke in a clipped, harsh tone. "Someone told them, Dan. They knew I had it. They tore the house apart and found it."

Dan swallowed and his voice sounded heavy. "It's all right, Vivian. Couldn't be helped, I reckon." "But it can be helped. Someone in this town sold us out. Who? Why?"

Darrow shoved the gun in his waistband. "Maybe you'll find out . . . if you happen to live. I ought to gun you both down!"

Dan's fingers clenched. Vivian never stopped rocking but she looked contemptuously up at the outlaw.

"That's all you ever knew, Tex. . . gunning down. It'll catch up with you someday."

Dan eased up on the balls of his feet, throwing a quick glance at Denver, wondering if he could beat that outlaw's slug and reach Tex. Then Darrow took a deep breath.

"We'll let it go, Belle . . . this time." He looked at Dan, anger still riding him. "Jack Bruhn wants to see you and he'll decide what'll be done."

Dan turned to the door. Tex stepped aside as Dan approached and Denver pushed himself from the far wall. They walked silently to the street and turned to the main road.

It was one of those deep moments of despair, when a man knows he has no way to turn and that all effort is useless. For the time he doesn't ever care what happens to him, for that seems unimportant. He can only wonder what has caused the disaster. So Dan's thoughts worried at this problem.

It had to be someone at the store, for only they had known about it. The Frazins might have talked to someone else, say Starrett. He might have told Bruhn.

Then Dan saw Ernie's troubled face again as they had discussed their plans to overthrow the outlaws. Perhaps she had been the one. He recalled how Gene Hiatt had looked at her. He remembered Hiatt's talk about her at the bar, and began to wonder if Ernie's still riding him. "Jack Bruhn wants to see you and he'll decide what'll be done."

Bruhn sat at a table, the rest lined the bar.

Tex dropped the weapon on the table. He jerked his thumb at Dan. "He came for it. We was told the truth, Jack."

There was a slight stir at the bar. Dan saw Face Odium lean negligently against the rail, shot glass in his left hand. Hiatt stood at the far end, head down.

"I suppose I ought to kill you," Bruhn said evenly.

Darrow shifted his weight impatiently. "Why wait, Jack?"

Bruhn's massive head turned. "You're eager, Tex. Shoot 'em and be done with 'em. That's not always the answer. You'll find out . . . someday."

It sounded strange to hear this big outlaw almost repeat Vivian. Dan glanced hastily at Tex, who stood biting his lip and scowling. Finally the man shrugged.

"I'd know what I'd do." "But you're not me, Tex," Bruhn said softly. "You ain't likely to be either." He looked at Dan again and his granite jaw set. His voice lifted.

"I'll give you credit for guts, Murdock, even though you have been a fool. Like I said, I should shoot you, but you've done us a favor."

Tex exploded. "Favor! They'd have killed us or jailed us!" "That's right," Bruhn nodded. "We only did half a job and this jasper woke us up. We're going over every house in the town. We won't miss a one. We'll tear 'em apart, and when we're through there won't be a chance of a hidden gun turning up again. Murdock woke us up . . . I say that's a favor."

Bruhn turned to Dan again. "I return favors, Murdock, though I know you didn't mean any. But this will be the last . . . for you or anyone else in the town. The next time we'll shoot and you can depend on it."

Bruhn stood up and his voice became even again. "Get out of my sight, Murdock. Tell your friends how things stand, and tell 'em that the whole town can be wiped out if I say the word. Tell 'em not to take the chance."

As Bruhn had promised, the outlaw's search was thorough. Phil and Dan arrived at the Preston home to find Paula alone. But they saw Vause and Egan unceremoniously enter George Gorton's shack while Tex Darrow came along the street and entered the Riike's house without so much as a knock. Phil briefly told Paula what had happened.

"I'm sorry the plan fell through, but I'm glad you're safe." Her eyes rested on Dan for a long moment and then on her father as she added, softly. "Glad for both of you."

Within an hour Vause and Egan came, and they grinned crookedly at Phil as he opened the door. They saw Dan and chuckled.

"Now there's the gent we got to watch. We'd better look real good here."

"Do you have to tear the place apart?"

"Sure," Vause answered, "plump apart. You ought to see the shack we just left. When the man wakes up from his drunk, he'll swear a tornado hit the place."

"Gorton's drunk?" Dan asked. "Limber-jawed," Vause nodded. "No need to watch him . . . and he's got another full bottle of whiskey to work on when he sleeps this one off. Too bad all of you gents ain't the same way. There'd be no trouble."

Student Leaps to Death at U. of I.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (U.P.) — County Coroner Don Wykoff has ruled that an Indian student at the University of Illinois committed suicide, apparently because he was forced to leave his bride behind in India.

Karansinh M. Jahala, 24, Bombay, India, plunged to his death Thursday from the second floor of the electrical engineering building here. He was said to be depressed over being unable to rejoin his bride of a few months in his native land.

Wykoff said other Indian students told him Jahala was married in India last August and left a month later to begin studies in this country.

His fellow students told the coroner Jahala had been sent to do graduate work in engineering at Illinois against his will and had been seeking permission from the Indian embassy to return to his wife.

Shortly before the plunge he received a letter from his wife with an enclosed picture, they said.

Wilson Complains to President of Defense, Manpower Plan Leakage

AUGUSTA, Ga. (U.P.) — President Eisenhower said today that "leakage" of information on the defense budget and military manpower plans must stop.

The President made the statement after Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, here for budget talks with the chief executive, told Mr. Eisenhower that his completion of the budget for the 1958 fiscal year was "complicated" by leakage of information on Defense Department plans.

The President, Wilson, Asst. Defense Secretary W. J. McNeil and Budget Director Percival Brundage conferred at length this morning at the Augusta National Golf Club on the multi-billion-dollar budget.

Up to Mr. Eisenhower

The final size of the budget that will go to Congress rests with the President. But from the conference today was expected to come a fairly complete plan subject only to minor changes between now and January, barring some new international blow-up.

Complaining about news-leaks, Wilson told the President how he and his staff started working on the new budget last June "and then things started to leak."

"This leakage is something that's got to stop," said the President with what seemed to be more than a trace of irritation in his voice.

Wilson mentioned specifically stories published during the summer that the Defense Department

Christmas In Homelands Discussed In Talks to County Historical Society

The Saline County Historical society held its December meeting Tuesday evening in the club room of the Harrisburg public library.

A short business meeting convened, during which use of the Lincoln brick mould was discussed. President Louis Aaron then appointed a nominating committee composed of James Bond, Mrs. D. F. Rumsey, Mrs. Dick Davenport and Mrs. Naomi Shain, which will report to the society in February.

Group singing of Christmas carols followed. Mrs. Helen Asbell furnishing the accompaniment. The finale was the singing of "Silent Night" by dim candlelight, establishing a reverent and Christmas-like atmosphere for talks following.

Mrs. J. J. Klein, Harrisburg, spoke on the observance of Christmas in her homeland of Germany. The jolly old fellow there is called St. Nicholas. On Christmas Eve the Christ child enters each home and brings in a Christmas tree. He returns with unwrapped toys, and may often be aided by an angel. St. Nicholas has previously visited each home and secured the names of the children which are then given to the Christ child.

Mrs. Klein had made an arrangement of a wreath, four be-ribboned candles and a crèche on a table, and explained the observance and meaning of the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th Sundays before Advent.

Mrs. John Hill, Galatia, spoke on the observance of the Yule season in her native Monaco. The observance is very similar to that in France. The Santa is called "Noel" and this is a season for the young children. On Christmas Eve the adults and children attend midnight mass, then return home for an elaborate meal called reveillon. The children awaken on the morning of the 25th to receive the gifts left by Noel in their shoes.

Miss Charlotte Verkman, Eldorado, appearing in native Dutch costume, explained Christmas observance in her homeland, Holland. Their Santa is called St. Nicholas, and rides a white horse and has a helper, Black Peter. Peter descends the chimneys and fills the wooden shoes with gifts. The shoes are previously filled with carrots and hay as a gift from the children to St. Nicholas' white horse. The 26th is also observed by the children as an extra Christmas Day. Miss Verkman noted that only in the past generation did the giving and receiving of gifts originate in Holland. Miss Verkman also read a paper on Holland's Christmas customs and then sang an unusual and beautiful Dutch carol. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Madge Robertson of Eldorado.

Mrs. Verkman was with her daughter during the evening and stated that the family had come to the U. S. only last April.

The social hour was in charge of Mrs. Ownley Furman, Mrs. Ray Durham and Mrs. D. F. Rumsey.

Rule 'Human Torch' Burning of Boy by 8 Others An Accident

DETROIT (U.P.) — Authorities ruled Thursday the "human torch" burning of a teen-age boy by eight of his friends was an accident and released the boys to their parents.

The boys, all from suburban River Rouge, were picked up by police for questioning Thursday in the burning of John Pitocco, 16, who is hospitalized at University Hospital in Ann Arbor with burns over 70 per cent of his body. The burning occurred Aug. 9.

Police said the youths admitted soaking young Pitocco with gasoline but denied setting fire to him intentionally. They said they got mad at John while repairing an auto, knocked him down and doused him with gasoline. They said the fire was started when one of them lit a cigarette and unwittingly tossed the match into a pool of gasoline.

Far-Flung Pacific Fleet Would Not Be Caught Again by Sneak Attack

PEARL HARBOR, T. H. (U.P.) — A flash enemy attack conceivably could flatten Pearl Harbor again. The immediate defenses of the big naval base itself seem almost as prone as they were 15 years ago this morning.

But it would not be another "Pearl Harbor." Today the United States Pacific Fleet is far-flung, combat ready and prepared to fend off and strike back with an atomic wallop.

The Navy learned the hard way 15 years ago when Japanese dive bombers sneaked in over Pearl Harbor and knocked out 18 ships of the line. Never again will 86 warships be nestled in the sprawling port as they were on Dec. 7, 1941.

With radar receivers sweeping the sky and early warning planes extending the line far out to sea, enemy bombers would find the harbor deserted even if they got through to unload their bombs.

Pacific Fleet ships are spread out to Sydney, Australia, and Taipei, Formosa, from San Diego, Calif., to Sasebo, Japan.

The big, lumbering battlewagons have given way to fast attack carriers and rocket-launching smaller craft.

Huge armadas no longer assemble here. Carriers and subs dart into the big Pacific base and hurry out in keeping with atom-age strategy. Cries of "The fleet's in" seldom are heard in Honolulu any more.

Battleship row where the California, the Maryland, the Oklahoma, the West Virginia, the Tennessee, the Arizona and the Nevada were moored 15 years ago, is all but deserted today. Only the Arizona, which took a 1,000-pound bomb down one of her stacks, remains as a reminder of yesterday's tragedy.

The Arizona lies in 35 feet of water, where 1,102 sailors were entombed in her gutted passageways and compartments. The victims included men from every state.

Jenner Blames Failure to Revamp State Gov't for 'Corruption of Officials'

CHICAGO (U.P.) — Albert E. Jenner Jr., special counsel for the Illinois Budgetary Commission, has blamed failure to revamp some aspects of state government for "corruption of public officials and private morals."

Jenner spoke at a meeting of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois. The group is seeking to rally support for fiscal reorganization of state government.

Jenner, who helped investigate the 2 1/2 million dollar embezzlement by ex-State Auditor Orville E. Hodge, said state government has not been studied for the past 39 years and "the price we pay for it is far greater than money."

"It is a sordid story of corruption of public officials and private morals," he said.

Jenner and interim State Auditor Lloyd Morey presented the meeting with a program of reforms which they called a blue print for good government.

Jenner said conflict of interest should be avoided in public affairs and state employees must devote all their energy and talent to the public trust.

Named at the meeting was a special subcommittee consisting of members of numerous civic groups to study the problem of supervising financial institutions.

The subcommittee is part of a steering committee appointed by the taxpayers' federation.

And since I've already said this is Friday, I cannot wait for permission but must go on, and I'm not going to break any laws or get into any lawsuits.

Here are some of the things you'll find:

"Wherever he is, President McKinley is one hundred and something years old today. And I know a sweet girl named Suzanne whose father has a rose given to him by McKinley pressed in a book. He went around spreading rosebuds like that, President McKinley did. And considering that most politicians go around spreading, I think rosebuds are a novel twist." (The makes sixty words used up and I'm glad she made rosebuds one word instead of the two-rose buds—or it would have been 62.)

And:

"I just put my mother on a plane. It was an absorbing experience. (73 words)

"Not that she worries about flying. She loves to fly. Because she read once all pilots were ex-GI's who were good clean-cut boys and needed the money. (101 words if you count ex-GI's one word and clean-cut two words.)

"So the actual soaring is no problem. It's the ticket and the insurance. Mother isn't happy unless she has about $100,000 worth of insurance when she flies. She feels it is the least she can do for us. And her favorite topic of last-minute conversation at airports is chatting gaily about all the lovely things we can do with our 'inheritance.' Of course I wouldn't deprive her of this joy for anything, but I hate it because I know just as soon as she lands where she's going—she'll spend the next week feeling guilty." (197 words)

Also:

"I always thought the South Pole was strictly for the Byrds. 'But now something new has been added. 'Seabees. 'So we now have the Byrds and the Bees at the South Pole. Things are looking up. I mean, in the past this combination has been a great help to civilization. So there is not a single bit of telling where it is all going to end. . . .

Gosh, I'm running out of space again and I've used up but 264 words. They still owe me, let's see, 264 from 500 leaves . . .

Fire Marshal Probes Blazes At Springfield

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.) — The state fire marshal's office today began an investigation of a series of fires here after local authorities turned up evidence of arson in a downtown building.

The latest in a series of fires which have hit Springfield broke out late Thursday on the second floor of a building adjacent to the First Methodist Church here. The building contained a number of Sunday school rooms, a camera shop, and a savings and loan company.

Asst. State Fire Marshal Roy R. Richardson said his office was called into the investigation when it became apparent the fire had been the work of an arsonist.

The building was heavily damaged before the fire could be extinguished.

Berserk Burglar Fatally Shot After Killing Policeman

CHICAGO (U.P.) — Police today sought the companion of a berserk burglar who shot and killed a policeman and then was killed himself in a fusillade of police bullets.

Hector Garcia was cut down late Thursday when he heeded the pleas of a mother to "please leave us alone," and fled from a west side apartment where he had taken refuge.

Meanwhile, a policeman who was scarred last month in an acid attack, identified Garcia as one of his assailants. The officer, Donald Passeri, was sprayed by a vial of acid Nov. 23 when he attempted to question four men in a car.

Police believed that Garcia's companion in the burglary that led to his death might also have been connected with the acid attack.

Garcia, who had terrorized a score of persons in the three-story apartment building, was felled by a burst of machinegun and pistol fire when he was trapped in an alleyway by three detectives and refused to surrender.

The gunman earlier shot and killed officer Osbourne Sims, 33, father of four children, who had been summoned with his partner to answer a burglary call.

Sees No Danger of Gasoline Rationing

CHICAGO (U.P.) — Arthur S. Fleming, director of defense mobilization, said Thursday night the United States can help alleviate the oil shortage in Europe without danger of gasoline rationing here.

Fleming said President Eisenhower's plan to divert oil to Western Europe can be carried out "without contemplating the possibility of rationing in this country."

Fleming spoke at a dinner meeting of the 13th biennial General Assembly of the States.

Philippines Voted to UN Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U.P.) — The Philippines, with the backing of the United States, won a first ballot victory over Russian-backed Czechoslovakia today for a place in the United Nations security council.

The Philippines received 51 votes to 20 for Czechoslovakia. Single votes were cast for Afghanistan, Spain and Yugoslavia.

The Philippines will take its seat on the council Jan. 1.

The election was to fill a one year unexpired term occasioned by the resignation of Yugoslavia in accordance with an agreement reached last year to break a 36-ballot deadlock between that country and the Philippines.

Under a formula worked out by Chile's Dr. Jose Maza, then president of the assembly, the Philippines and Yugoslavia drew lots to decide which should be elected to the council. Yugoslavia won the chance drawing and, under the formula, agreed to resign after serving only half the two-year term.

Yugoslavia last month announced its resignation from the council as of Jan. 1. But Russia proposed Czechoslovakia for the seat, which originally was allotted to "Eastern Europe" under a gentlemen's agreement reached in London in 1946.

Eden to Lead Britain Drive to Restore Economy

LONDON (U.P.) — Sir Anthony Eden will remain Britain's prime minister and lead the nation in an all-out drive to restore a sound economy weakened by the Suez invasion, Conservative Party sources said today.

Fifteen "Suez Rebels" abstained Thursday night when Eden won a vote of confidence on his Middle East policies, but political sources said the Conservatives would treat the revolt as one that has fizzled and continue to back Eden.

It was believed Eden's stand was strengthened by U. S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon's declaration in New York Thursday night that it is vital for the United States to aid Britain in the "financial plight" the nation suffered as a result of the Suez crisis.

R. A. Butler, Eden's deputy and stand-in while the prime minister recuperates in Jamaica from "severe overstrain," left no doubt Eden planned to stay on as leader of Britain and the "Conservative Party."
